Mental Health and Wellbeing - Top tip of the week!

Listening to your favourite music, picking up a paintbrush, or putting pen to paper – any activity that engages our creativity is an excellent way to support mental wellbeing. Creative activities can help manage stress, provide a way to relax, and be in the moment. Creative hobbies can also boost our confidence. If you're trying out a new hobby, track your progress and you'll likely feel a sense of achievement as this new skill flourishes.
