Diary Writing Planning Template

- When you write a diary, it is very easy to focus only on the events. However, this can make your diary very dull and more like a list; it doesn't allow the reader to truly understand the diarist.
- What makes a piece of diary writing really effective is allowing the reader to understand your thoughts and feelings, whether you are writing as yourself or using empathy to write as someone else.

What has happened? What are you writing about? Describe the sights, sounds and characters. Use lots of adjectives and sentence types to help you describe. Avoid writing too much; focus on one or two things.

How are you feeling? Consider using a range of words to express this. Use emotive language to help the reader understand.

What have you been thinking about? Do you have any particular worries? Is there anything you are dreading or perhaps looking forward to?

Father's Day

How Did Father's Day Begin?

On 5th July 1908, a church in West Virginia, USA held the first event in honour of fathers. It was a Sunday sermon in memory of 362 men who had died the previous December in an explosion at the Fairmount Coal Company mines. Many of the men who died were fathers and grandfathers.

A year later, a young woman called Sonora Smart Dodd decided to try to establish an official day to honour all fathers. Sonora's mother died when Sonora was just 16 years old. She was one of six children who were raised by their father who was an ex-soldier.

She went to churches, the YMCA, shopkeepers and the government to try to get support to start a national day for fathers. She was successful! The 19th June 1910 was the day chosen by Washington State to celebrate fathers.

Some people did not think it was important to have a Father's Day. Sonora was angered by this response and said, "Either we honour both of our parents, mother and father, or let us desist from honouring either one."

There are no set traditions on how people celebrate Father's Day. However, it is a great time to appreciate any man who plays the role of a father. This might be a grandfather, uncle or even a family friend who has looked after us.

Did you know...?

In the UK, Father's Day is celebrated each year on the third Sunday of June.

Father's Day Gifts

Fathers are often given socks, ties, sports or electronic equipment as gifts. However, all dads are different and would like to receive different things. A homemade card or breakfast in bed is always a good option. A large company that makes cards reports that Father's Day is the fifth largest card sending holiday. It is tradition that fathers are given a white or red rose because the rose is the official flower of Father's Day.

Father's Day

History of Father's Day

On 5th July 1908, a church in West Virginia, USA held the first event in honour of fathers. It was a Sunday sermon in memory of 362 men who had died the previous December in an explosion at the Fairmount Coal Company mines. Many of the men who died were fathers and grandfathers.

A year later, a young woman called Sonora Smart Dodd decided to try to establish an official day to honour all fathers. When Sonora was just 16 years old, her mother died. She was one of six children who were then raised by their single father who was a war veteran.

She went to churches, the YMCA, shopkeepers and the government campaigning to start a national day for fathers. Eventually, her efforts paid off and she was successful! The 19th June 1910 was the day chosen by Washington State to celebrate fathers.

At first, Father's Day was not thought to be as important as Mother's Day and people thought it was just an excuse to sell things in shops. Sonora was outraged by this response and stated, "Either we honour both of our parents, mother and father, or let us desist from honouring either one."

There are no set traditions on how people celebrate Father's Day. However, it is a great opportunity to appreciate and celebrate any man who plays the role of a father whether they be a grandfather, uncle or even a family friend who has looked after us.

Father's Day is celebrated slightly differently around the world. In the UK, Father's Day is celebrated each year on the third Sunday of June. In Germany, Father's Day is celebrated by drinking lots of beer and eating large amounts of delicious food.

Father's Day Gifts

Traditionally, Fathers are often given socks, ties, sports or electronic equipment as gifts. However, all dads are different and would like to receive many different things. A homemade card is always a good option although there will always be a great quantity of cards available to buy in shops leading up to the day. In fact, one card making company reports that Father's Day is the fifth largest card sending holiday in the world. Another tradition is to give fathers a white or red rose as the rose is the official flower of Father's Day. A red rose signifies a living father whereas a white one represents a father who is no longer alive.

Father's Day

Father's Day is celebrated around the world to recognise the contribution that fathers and father figures make to the lives of their children. This day celebrates fatherhood and male parenting.

How Did Father's Day Begin?

It is thought that the first event organised to honour fathers was held on 5th July 1908 in a church in West Virginia, USA. The Sunday sermon was dedicated to the memory of 362 men who had died the previous December in an explosion at the Fairmount Coal Company mines in Monongah. Many of the men who died were fathers and grandfathers.

Inspired by the previous year's event, a young woman called Sonora Smart Dodd started campaigning for an official day to honour all fathers. When she was just 16 years old, Sonora and her five siblings were left to be raised by their war veteran father after the death of their mother.

Eager to get things started, Sonora went to churches, the YMCA, shopkeepers and even the government to raise awareness and to highlight the importance of fathers. However, the idea of Father's Day was met with disinterest as it was not thought to be as important as Mother's Day. People actually thought it was just an excuse to sell things in shops and for companies to make money. Outraged by this response, Sonora declared, "Either we honour both of our parents, mother and father, or let us desist from honouring either one."

Eventually, her determination and hard work paid off. The 19th June 1910 was confirmed by Washington State as a day to celebrate fathers.

Father's Day

Did you know...?

The date when Father's Day is celebrated varies from country to country but in many, Father's Day is held on the third Sunday in June. There are no set traditions on how people celebrate Father's Day and different families commemorate it in different ways.

However, it is a great opportunity to appreciate and celebrate any man who plays the role of a father whether they be a grandfather, uncle or even a family friend who has looked after us.

Father's Day Around the World

Father's Day is celebrated slightly differently around the world. For example, in Germany, Father's Day (known as Männertag) is celebrated by drinking large volumes of beer and indulging in delicious local food.

In Thailand, Father's Day is a public holiday and it is celebrated on December 5th, the birthday of a previous king of the country.

Father's Day Gifts

Traditionally, fathers are often given socks, ties, sports or electronic equipment as gifts. However, all dads are different and would like to receive different things. Most fathers will receive a card, whether homemade or bought from a shop. In fact, according to one card making company, Hallmark, Father's Day is the fifth largest card sending holiday in the year. Another tradition is to give fathers a white or red rose as the rose is the official flower of Father's Day. A red rose signifies a living father whereas a white one represents a deceased father.
